Clerk of Putnam Co. Court. John W. Brown, Justice of the Supreme Court.

Letter in folder dated May 6, 1931, written in response to an inquiry.

You are advised that it appears from the papers in the Revolutionary War pension claim, W.15764, that John Delavan, the son of Timothy, was born February 11, 1744, place not given. It was stated that he had nine brothers, namely, Timothy, Junior; Abraham; Matthew; Nathaniel; Samuel; Nathan; Daniel; Stephen; and Cornelius, all of them except Cornelius, who was too young to serve, were in the Revolution, and that all of the ten sons of Timothy Delavan rode in the procession at the evacuation of New York City. There are no claim for pension on file on account of the services of Timothy, Abraham, Matthew, Samuel Nathan, Stephen, and Cornelius Delavan.

While residing in North Salem, Westchester County, New York, John Delavan enlisted in September, 1777, served two weeks as a private in Captain Samuel Delavan's Company, Colonel Gilbert Drake's New York regiment, and again in the same fall, exact date not given, enlisted and served two weeks in Captain Nathaniel Delavan's Company, Colonel Gilbert Drake's New York Regiment. No relationship of Captains Samuel and Nathaniel Delavan to soldier shown.

He enlisted about April 1, 1781, served in Captain Ephraim Lockwood's Company, Colonel Thaddeus Crane's New York Regiment and was discharged in November 1781.

The soldier married October 6, 1785, at Ridgefield, Fairfield County, Connecticut, Martha Keeler, who was born August 28, 1757. She was then of Ridgefield, Connecticut and their marriage was recorded on the town records of said Ridgefield.

He died January 8, 1834, at North Salem, New York, and she died March 10, 1843, at Fishkill, Dutchess County, New York, to which place she had moved about two years after the death of her husband. Both were buried in the graveyard at North Salem, New York.

The widow left surviving her four children: Chauncey, Jane and Catharine Delavan, and Betsey, the wife of Abraham Brinkerhoff. It was also stated that they had a son, John; there are no particulars in regard to him.

On April 25, 1849, Chauncey Delavan made application on behalf of himself and his surviving brothers and sisters, above named, for the pension that was due their mother. The claim was allowed.
