Letter in folder dated February 9, 1931, written in response to an inquiry.

You are advised that it appears from the papers in the Revolutionary War pension claim, S.3427, that Samuel J. Griffith was born June 13, 1755, in Dartmouth, Massachusetts.

While residing in Canaan, New York, he enlisted and served with the New York Troops as follows: from January 1, 1777, five months as orderly sergeant in captain John Smith's Company; from June 15, 1777, as a private in Captain Nathan Herrick's Company, Colonel VanDyck's Regiment, and was discharged November 15, 1777; from sometime in September 1778, one month as private in Captain Elisha Gilbert's Company, and guarded the frontiers; from October 1, 1779 as private in Captain Daniel Herrick's Company, again guarding the frontiers and was discharged November 15, 1779; from sometime in 1780, exact date not shown, one month as private in Captain Jonathan Warner's Company, and acted as guard in the city of Albany. He stated that he was in two skirmishes with the Indians, one of which was at Fort Edward, and that he received wounds in the service, nature of wounds and engagements in which they were received, not given.

After the Revolution, he resided on the Delaware River in Delaware County, state not given, about six years; on the Susquehanna River, in Chenango County, state not given, about three years; north of Albany, in Montgomery County, no state given about three years; in Canandaigua, Ontario County, New York, about ten or twelve years; in Barre, Orleans County, New York about six or seven years' in Cayahoga County, Ohio three years; and then in Amherst, Lorain County, Ohio.

He was allowed pension on his application executed March 27, 1833, while residing in Amherst, Ohio.

He died December 25, 1838.

In 1834, a son, Judah Griffith, is referred to. His age and the name of his mother are not given. In 1835, one Duty Griffith made affidavit in Lorain County, Ohio, in support of soldier's claim, no relationship to soldier shown.

The above is the history of the only soldier named Samuel Griffith, who received pension while residing in the State of Ohio, found on the Revolutionary War records of this bureau.
