Dear Dir—

I shall feel greatly obliged if you will answer me the following Interrogatories.

1. Has a pension ever been granted to Garret Putman a captain in the Revolutionary War?
2. Is so, when and what arrears were then due?
3. Was the money ever paid, if so how much has been paid, when paid and to whom and on what authority.

I make these enquiries in behalf of William G. Putman a son and sole legatee and devisee of Garret Putman. William G. Putman has been informed that his mother drew a large sum of money as her husband's pension but she is now dead and it can not be ascertained now how much she received it any.

Please also state whether Rebecca Putman widow of Garret Putman ever obtained a pension if so when and how much did she receive.

I am also informed that Garrett Putman never obtained his bounty land. If so can this still be obtained and on what proof? William G. Putman informed me that he can prove the Service of his father by two or three witnesses. Will this be sufficient. Is there not proof of his service in this papers on applying for a pension if so cannot this proof be referred to for the purpose of obtaining his bounty land.

If you will answer this at your earliest convenience you will confer a particular favor [to] William G. Putman.

I am with great respect your Obt Servt, Timothy Fitch.

Letter in the folder dated September 22, 1910, written in response to an inquiry.

In regard to your inquiry of last May, you are advised that while the name Garrett Putnam is not found on the Revolutionary War pension records, a further search has disclosed the following information.

(5)

He married while in the service at Fort Hunter, on July 8, 1781, Rebecca Garrison born March 15, 1764, daughter of Abraham Garrison.

Soldier died April 12, 1826, and his widow Rebecca Putman was allowed pension on file No. W. 16687 on the application executed December 27, 1836, while a resident of Johnstown, Montgomery County, New York.

In 1846 it was stated that their son William C. [sic] Putman was sole legatee and devisee. No further data relative to family.

Very respectfully, [no name appears on copy] Acting Commissioner.

End Notes—W.16637—Garret Putman

1. In April of 1778 there were to be two companies of Tryon County Rangers to be raised to consist of about 60 men each. They were to be raised from the Tryon County Militia Brigade. Captain Garret Putman and Lieutenant Victor Putman and Benjamin Dickson or Dixon formed one company and the other company officers were Captain John Breadbake and Lieutenants John Adam Frederick Helmer, and John Smith. The two companies were to report to Colonel Morris Graham of the First Regiment of Dutchess County Militia. FROM: The Public Papers of George Clinton, First Governor of New York, Albany, Vol. 3, pp 251-252. So far only muster/pay rolls have been found for Captain Breadbake's Company.
2. In 1779, Brigadier General James Clinton raised an army of continental and militia troops, which formed in the Mohawk Valley, and then later joined the army of Major General John Sullivan. The combined armies marched against the Iroquois villages in western New York. Colonel John Harper of the Fifth Regiment of Tryon County Militia volunteered his services to General Clinton; Harper was appointed the captain of about 135 volunteers including Garret. Putman was then appointed as the second in command. The volunteers were not paid but drew rations. Garret was present at the Battle of Newtown, present day Elmira, NY, on August 29, 1779 but was not an active participant in the battle. Garret was in what is called today the "Groveland Ambush" on September 13, 1779. A scouting part of continental and volunteers under First Lieutenant Thomas Boyd of the First Pennsylvania Continental Regiment were ambushed. Putman and a few others escaped the ambush but the rest were either killed or captured. Garret also served as Captain in Colonel Frederick Visscher's Third Regiment of Tryon County Militia but when he was appointed is unknown but he probably served in 1778 and 1779.
3. Garret was appointed Captain on May 11, 1780 in Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant John Harper's Regiment of Levies. The company was divided into small groups and garrisoned at different times in Forts Johnstown, Hunter, Windecker, and the Sacandaga Blockhouse. In September, Harper's Levies were sent to Fort Schuyler to replace the First New York Continental Regiment. On November 22, the Fourth New York Continental Regiment arrived at Fort Schuyler to replace Harper's Levies. On November 23, Major James M. Hughes marched from Fort Schuyler to Schenectady where they were discharged on November 30.
4. Garret was appointed captain on April 27, 1781 in Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant Marinus Willett's Regiment of New York State Levies. The company was discharged on December 31.
5. The Battle of Johnstown was fought on October 25, 1781.
