Reference to your communication requesting, in behalf of your correspondent Mr. Charles H. Sherrill, additional information relative to the military and family history of Jeremiah Sherrill, a soldier of the Revolutionary War, you are advised that his pension papers have been carefully examined and it appears that this particular soldier was born in the year 1755 (probably in East Hampton, N.Y.) and died January 14, 1840, in Franklin, New York, where he had been living for some time with his daughter, Vashti Edwards. No other points of identity have been discovered.

Owing to the pressure of other and more important work of the Bureau it would be impracticable to furnish copies of the papers.

A careful search has been made and no other Revolutionary pensioner bearing the name Jeremiah Sherrill has been found; neither has any record of Abraham Sherrill's service in the war of 1812.

End Notes—S.11383—Jeremiah Sherril

1. Major General Philip Schuyler of the Continental Army.
2. Henry B. Livingston, Jr., was the major of Colonel James Clinton's Third New York Continental Regiment.
3. John Hulbut was appointed captain on June 28, 1775 of the Third Company (Suffolk County Company). The other company officers were John Davis as the first Lieutenant and William Havens as the second lieutenant and William Havens as the second lieutenant. They were also appointed June 28, 1775 in Colonel Clinton's Regiment.
4. Edward Conklin or Conkling, etc., was not an officer in Colonel Clinton's Regiment in 1775. There were several Conklin's in the regiment but not an Edward. The second lieutenant was William Havens.
5. The battle Jeremiah refers to is unknown. He did not go to Fort Ticonderoga according to Captain Hurlbut's muster roll. "Dated in Camp at Lake George the 15th of Octr 1775", he was discharged on October 8th. FROM: Revolutionary War Rolls, 1775-1783, M-246, Roll 60, folder 38, National Archives, Washington, D.C.
6. Edward Conklin was the second lieutenant in Captain Davis' Company.
7. On March 8, 1776, James Clinton was appointed Colonel of the Second New York Continental Regiment. Captain Davis and his company were now in the Second New York. Only one payroll exists for Captain Davis' Company for November 1 to November 20, 1776 and Jeremiah's name is not on the roll.
